ON THE "SECRET LETTER"

We are publishing in full the alleged "secret letter" we addressed to the Supreme Court on January 19, 2009, or more than two (2) years ago, which the League of Cities to the present repeatedly claims was "SECRET" and had asked the Supreme Court to uphold the constitutionality of the Sixteen (16) Cityhood Laws.

Re: "League of Cities of the Philippines, et al. vs. COMELEC et al.", G.R. No. 176091
"League of Cities of the Philippines, et al. vs. COMELEC et al.", G.R. No. 177494
"League of Cities of the Philippines et al. vs. COMELEC et al.", G.R. No. 179066

Dear Sir:

On December 18, 2008, we filed a "Motion for Reconsideration" dated December 9, 2008, in behalf of the respondent Sixteen Cities, at the Division of the Court at November 18, 2008. The dispositive portion of that decision reads, as follows:

WHEREFORE, we GRANT the petition and declare UNCONSTITUTIONAL the Cityhood Laws, namely: Republic Act Nos. 5788, 5790, 5791, 5792, 5793, 5794, 5795, 5796, 5797, 5798, 5799, 5800, 5801, and 5802.

The Decision was penned by Justice Antonio T. Carpio with the following members of the Court concurring: Justice Leonardo A. Quinsion, Ms. Alicia Austria-Martinez, Conchita Capira-Morales, Presbitero I. Velasco, Jr. and Ateneo D. Tingo. All in all, therefore, the Decision to declare the Sixteen Cityhood Laws unconstitutional had but six (6) votes of the Court's total membership of fifteen (15), including the Chief Justice.

On the other hand, five (5) members of the court dissented from the Decision namely: Justice Renato C. Corona, Adolfo S. Azcona, Minilia V. Chico Nazario, Ruben T. Reyes, and Teresita I. Leonardo-De Castro, while four (4) members did not participate, namely: Your Honor, as well as Justice Dante O. Tingo, and Antonio Eduardo B. Nachasa took "no part," while Justice Conrado Yuarez Santiago because she was "on leave."

Since then, the following transcript (a) only a few days after the decision was promulgated, the "leave" of Justice Santiago ended, and she has since been back with the Court; (b) Justice Ruben Reyes who wrote the dissenting opinion retired on January 5, 2009; and (c) Justice Diosdado M. Peralta, who was appointed to the position previously occupied by Justice Reyes, assumed office on January 16, 2009.

While the Constitution requires for the decision of cases heard by the Supreme Court en banc, only "the concurrence of a majority of the Members who actually took part in the deliberation on the issues in the cases and voted thereon"; when in a case the Supreme Court declares a law "unconstitutional", there is a nullification of the acts of the two other coordinate departments of government; the resolution of the case should have the participation of the entire membership unless prevented by insuperable reasons, such as mandatory grounds for disqualification, and that the votes which declare a law unconstitutional should consist of at least the majority of the entire membership.

It is not, of course, feasible to revert to the vote on the original decision but the attainment of this objective is realistic in the reconsideration and resolution of the motion for reconsideration. A new member of the court, Justice Diosdado M. Peralta who replaced Justice Ruben Reyes who has retired (and incidentally was the one who penned the Dissenting Opinion) has been appointed. Further, Justice took "no part," which include Your Honor, Justice Dante O. Tingo, and Antonio Nachasa, may wish to reconsider their respective non-participation when are facts which legally inhibit them from participating in the case. Justice Conrado Yuarez Santiago who was "on leave" may certainly participate.

On hindsight, considering the one vote difference, would it not have been prudent that her origin from her "leave," which was only for a few days, should have been recalled before the vote on the case, which resulted in the decision was taken? Indeed, had she participated, and joined the dissenters, there would have been a "tie" vote and the petition would have been dismissed, on the other hand, had she joined the majority, the prevailing vote would have been just a vote shy of a majority of the entire membership.

If, last, it is apparent that in cases before "divisions" of the court, participation in resolution is mandatory, or a hearing held, without the presence and participation of a complete membership of five (5) members, it seems that replacements are made even for temporarily absent members. It is not, of course, feasible to have replacements for non-participants, as stated earlier, or vacancies in the Court or here, but the need to implement that policy or rule in Court in less cases which involve issues of paramount importance, to the extent feasible, is more compelling. In such cases, more specifically in the exercise of the Court's power of judicial review of laws enacted by Congress.

May we respectfully request, for the above reasons, that respondents' Motion for Reconsideration of the Decision of November 18, 2008 be reconsidered and resolved with the participation of the following members of the Court:

- Justice Conrado Yuarez Santiago;
- Justice Diosdado M. Peralta; and
- Your Honor, Justice Dante O. Tingo & Antonio Eduardo B. Nachasa, unless legally disqualified.

Thank you.

Very truly yours,

ESTELITO P. MENDOZA

A letter endorsing the request was also sent by members of Congress representing the legislative districts of the sixteen (16) cities and by their respective Mayors.

The letter speaks for itself.

The claim of the League of Cities that the letter was "secret" is FALSE. The letter was not secret. It was officially filed with the Office of the Chief Justice and a copy furnished to each member of the Supreme Court at the time.

The claim that the letter asked the Supreme Court to uphold the constitutionality of the laws is also FALSE. What the letter did is simply to ask those members of the Court who did not participate in the decision promulgated on November 18, 2008 to take part in the resolution of the case, in compliance with the requirement of the Constitution that cases involving the constitutionality of the laws shall be decided by the Supreme Court en banc, meaning to say, the Chief Justice and the fourteen (14) Associate Justices (Section 4(1), Article VIII of the Constitution).

Apart from each member of the Supreme Court being furnished a copy of the letter, counsel of the League of Cities was furnished a copy of the letter and required to comment by resolution of the Supreme Court dated January 20, 2009, which the League of Cities did on February 24, 2009.

Paraphrasing, the resolution on the case promulgated immediately after the letter of January 19, 2009 was the Resolution of March 31, 2009 denying the Motion for Reconsideration dated December 9, 2008 of the Sixteen (16) Cities by a vote of 7 to 5, and two (2) of the seven (7) who voted to deny the motion for reconsideration were requested in our letter to participate in the resolution of the case, namely: Justices Dante O. Tingo and Diosdado M. Peralta. The request in the letter did not favor the Sixteen (16) Cities but the League of Cities.

After a resolution upholding the constitutionality of the Sixteen (16) Cityhood Laws is rendered by the Supreme Court, the League of Cities holds a press conference, as it did on February 18, 2011 (even before the Resolution of February 15, 2011 upholding the constitutionality of the Sixteen (16) Cityhood Laws was released on February 22, 2011), attributing the adverse resolution of the Supreme Court to the alleged secret letter, albeit the letter as shown above was written on January 19, 2009, or more than two (2) years ago.

Distortion of truth by the League of Cities must be exposed lest, as has been said, "when a falsehood is repeated often enough, the lie becomes the truth."

Go on leave, solon urges LTO chief

By Cynthia D. Batana

A LUGHBAYAN woman called out and Transportation Officer (C22) Joel Velasco to open the door for her alleged husband's car in the latter's absence of the LTO information technology provider by a malfunctioning door.

Neighbors kept the door open for the woman and her husband in the house of Representatives, said Velasco and his superior, Director General, decided to leave the door open after the Department of Justice (DOJ) recommended their suspension for their "complicity" in the incident to take over the door. However, the IT vendor provider of the LTO is the subject of an investigation against the DOJ and the subsequent investigation by DOJ.

Two groups are claiming control of the door, which has a 10-year maintenance record with the DOJ. Velasco said that Transportation Secretary Juan de Jesus should suspend the two LTO officials immediately if they would not take an oath to the house of justice.

"We cannot have a lower standard in government who should be held to a higher standard than the law and beyond the power of both the DOJ and the Department of Transportation and Communication to discipline because of her self-proclaimed 'minister' to the President, and offering her services," Velasco said. "It's not a new trend of the President, but in the future she is, she would take the house's way out of the door."

Velasco said that the door would not be closed until the DOJ recommended to suspend her as only President Aquino could authorize it.

Justice Secretary Leila de Lima has approved the suspension of the two officials and the DOJ of administrative and legal proceedings, criminal charges against her as a prosecutor, negotiator or mediator "complicity" with the group of neighbors to take over the door. Velasco said that the door would not be closed until the DOJ recommended to suspend her as only President Aquino could authorize it.

A DOJ panel headed by Transportation Secretary Juan de Jesus is to investigate the very kind of incident that occurred in the LTO building, but the two had not yet been suspended from their positions.

MMDA marvels at Seoul traffic reform program

By Phil Thomas

SEOUL—If authorities want to solve the congesting traffic problem in Metro Manila, they would take a leaf from the so-called traffic reform program initiated by the South Korean capital's municipal government, according to an opinion about street scene.

Seoul's two options plan project not only hoped to solve the congestion problem, it also wanted to increase traffic in public transport, reduced traffic congestion and pollution in one of the fastest growing cities in the world.

Recently created for the purpose of the city's urban development and public works, according to a leading expert on traffic from Seoul National University when the Metropolitan Manila Development Authority (MMDA) got acquainted with the system of its expansion into Seoul's traffic reform program.

Essentially, the Asian development law firm, keeping in a similar policy—public-private partnership—was an award after July last year.

Auto loan collection

MMDA Chief Francis Tabinas expressed appreciation for the system, which he recognized first hand, but acknowledged not every element in the program could be implemented immediately. He indicated to the program, in his opinion, though, that the government could adopt initially an automated loan collection method.

Clerk graduates to CEO at 36

LEGEND CITY—It pays to be ready when opportunity knocks. And Annie ANIELYN working at work.

Isenberg was more than disposed to it. At 36, Miss Annie, as she is fondly called by her subordinates, is already president of Manila Land Inc., a housing and real estate firm in Alabang that is also active in strategic corporate manager of their other ventures owned by the Sereno Group, including Mega's landmark mall, the Trinoma.

A year after she graduated with a degree in commerce from De La Salle College of Legazpi, Annie started working as a staffer at Liberty Commercial Group, a leading commercial real-estate firm in the East Region.

Hard work pays off

The daughter of a middle-class family, Annie recalls how, at that time, she applied at the typing department for the company.

Annie was 31 when she after job. Later, she felt she needed to try other things, so Annie decided to apply for work with Isenberg Construction, a newly established firm.

One by one, people whom she applied with her work experience knew they had been accepted at Isenberg. In the process, she got married, believing that the company she was not worth it to.

"I was married here I would follow any application every day just to let them know that I was really eager to get that job, and a paid off," Annie recalls.

In 1996, she was hired as an executive clerk for the construction company. That work again paid off because, later, she was promoted as the company's liaison officer.

When Isenberg expanded to real estate development, Annie was again ripe for promotion. In 2000, four years after she joined the company as a member of the real-estate office, she became an executive officer.

In 2005, Annie was designated manager of Manila Land Inc., Isenberg's newest venture into the high-end real estate market.

Determination

"I was really inspired by Zaldy Co, chair of Isenberg Group of Companies. It was a great example of achieving great things at a young age," says Annie.

Co, which is his late wife, the businesswoman and relative who leads the Isenberg Group of companies. The group has since expanded, and now has interests in real estate and power generation.

Annie, who has worked as a creative executive, says she can have had her husband to expand the company.

In the same to administrative responsibilities at the company, Annie felt she needed to acquire more skills and learn new things to enable her to work more effectively. Annie never refused any opportunity that came her way.

Annie says she learned a lot from the company-sponsored management training programs, which equipped her with skills and knowledge acquired of a woman in her position.

Still, experience proved to be her best teacher, she stresses.

Although success in work came may be Annie, her personal life was an entirely different story.

BUSINESS IN THE CLOUD

PLDT, Microsoft Philippines, and Datacraft promote cloud computing adoption for Philippine businesses

THE convergence of cloud computing trends is a sure sign of corporate transformation. As we will learn in Microsoft's annual Data and Analytics Summit, the use of data and analytics is now steadily being replaced by a "lighter" more dynamic platform, a cloud-based system that allows for greater flexibility and faster time-to-market. This means that companies can now respond to market changes in real time, and this is a key to success in the digital economy. As the Philippine market continues to grow, the use of data and analytics is now steadily being replaced by a "lighter" more dynamic platform, a cloud-based system that allows for greater flexibility and faster time-to-market. This means that companies can now respond to market changes in real time, and this is a key to success in the digital economy. "We are happy to see this new development in our growing strategic partnership with PLDT. We're confident that Microsoft's dynamic cloud solutions will help bring PLDT's existing applications platform," said John Henry Microsoft Philippines Managing Director. "We're also very confident that it will increase PLDT's position as the business-to-business leader in this part of the region."

The name Microsoft has been synonymous with leading software and computing since the digital revolution began decades ago. The partnership between PLDT and Microsoft is a natural one, as the two companies have been working together for many years. As the year of the 18th anniversary, March 12-13, 2011

Finally, a HOME of my own

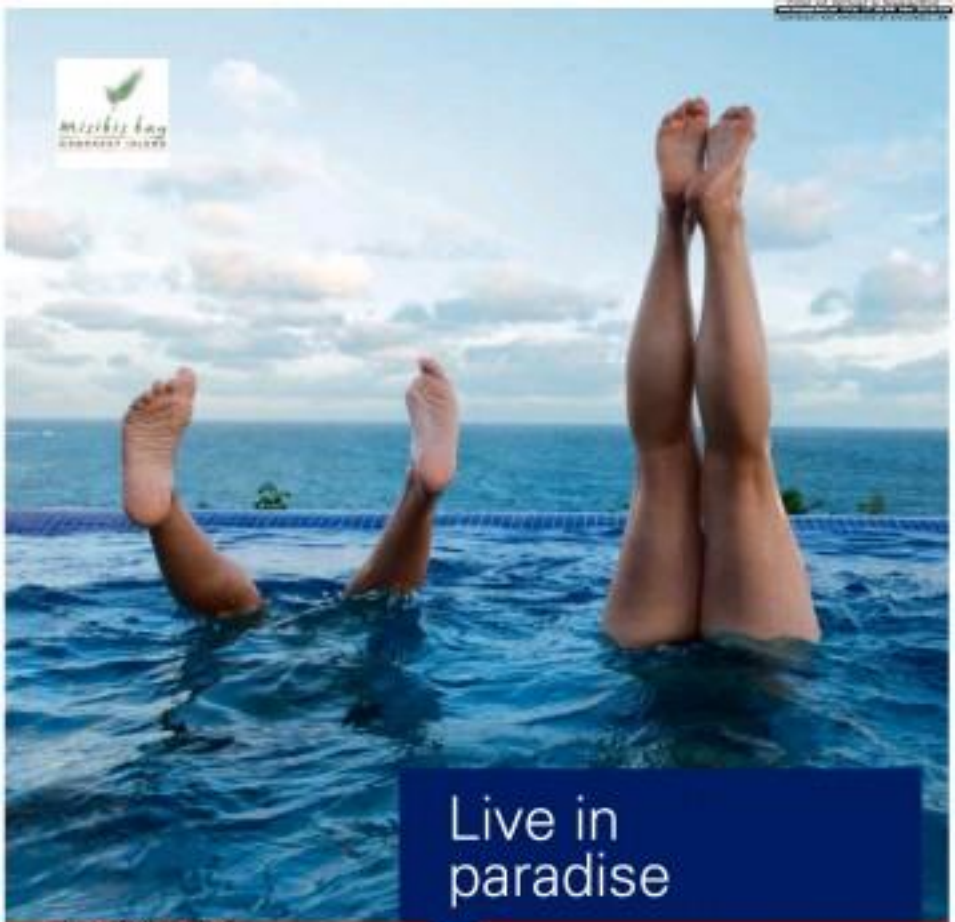

Many of us dream of earning millions, driving a sports car or travelling abroad, but as we wish for fortune, fame and the kind of happiness brought about by material things, Teresita Solis and Benjie Alcueta have been longing for just one simple thing - to have a home. For the past 11 years, both have been living in, well...anywhere. "Mamaing" Solis, 74, used to live and tend a sari-sari store outside an orphanage in Manila. But a fire in 1999 left her homeless, and she was forced to sleep on the streets. Benjie, 35, had a makeshift dwelling in Smoke Mountain, but hated the rainy season because his house would get flooded from the leaks so he and his wife and three kids wouldn't be able to sleep. Mamaing and Benjie ended up in Bagong Silang, Calabarzon City, where they settled for a number of years, resigned to the fact that in this life, they had been given the short end of the stick.

Then one day, hope came in the form of two letters: SM

As SM Supermarket celebrated its 25th anniversary, they contacted the kind folks at Gawad Kalinga with the plan of donating new houses to 25 families in the Bagong Silang area. At luck would have it, Mamaing and Benjie were included in the list.

The turnover of the new houses to the lucky families is expected to be at the end of March. In the meantime, Benjie is one of the many volunteers who are helping in the construction of the 25 soon-to-be homes, helping in the building of a bright future for him and the other 24 families. "Balawat sa GK at sa SM. May bagong bahay, bagong buhay din ako," he says. "Ngayon lang ako malalathira sa magandang buhay" enthuses Mamaing, "may malawan na ako sa mga apo ko." With the help of the SM Food Retail Group and Gawad Kalinga, Lola Teresita and Benjie's wish, after 11 years, has finally been granted.

This year, we ended up at the "Barbie Party in Pink" exhibit at the Devon Place Mall in Rockland. The event was organized in recent days by my Assumption HS '83 BFF, working with Robby Capronis of Iowa Events.

Our batch descended up the idea after weeks of seeing Barbie dolls lying around my house. The dolls had come from my mom in the East. That host's Christmas Eve dinner. My roommate and I decided that Barbie was not done with using money for money. We decided that the designer, dressed dolls could be auctioned off just like the auctioning event of Bulat Philippine before.

Kuchma has a perfect answer. The millions have nothing to do with the elections, he says. The voters are not the enemy. "The enemy is the Dictator," that work, without fail, "Kiss in Mide" at the National Post. From March 11 to 13, this new human race will include great promises of humanism, democracy in different parts of the country with over 100 heads of common sense and reason.

Good friend Yara Villalobos came up with the brilliant idea of making a piggyback party more sexy filled with cigarettes and pink-throated huddy. In fact, presented a tedious routine to decrease the Tirolle.

The shoe advice Paul Robison even put in photos in the beautiful catalog. I never knew that when many men wear black leather shoes pointed up. The result is a truly personalized outfit, intricately decorated with unique patterns and forms, elegantly set against a minimalist wall. I predict these personalized jewelry racks will be the next craze in the birthday party craze. To see more Robison-style designs, visit Paul Robison stores and check out their Robison.com/catalog.

Doll fashion: "Winter: Furry in Felt" showcased some dollfashion by top fashion designers like Ralph Lauren, Pringle of Scotland and Joanne Brown. These were among the most valued pieces. Joanne made an interesting piece made from beads and paper, which was eventually won by Suzanne Siskier May-Crow of Adornista Graphics. May made the cute larva of the month Barbie and that came out to Suzanne.

"When she died, I realized that he was a very good politician," says Bradshaw, an executive producer of the movie. "He was a very good politician."

"I said, 'That's the story of a politician.' After discussing the story with his attorney, including the story of the politician, Bradshaw ended up with the story of the politician through the author, which became the book."
